

A Timely Message to the World

“Malaysia: Bullish on Bouncing Back.”

That was our pledge 20 years ago when we rallied to overcome the Asian economic crisis.

Recently we again endured dark days and uncertainty. We had to bring about change.
We had to right the wrong.

So in the recent general election, we Malaysians finally said enough is enough, and stood together to bring our country back on track, back into the light – back to a stable future.

We must now continue our country’s first 52 years of noble achievements in development and progress, as well as in racial and religious harmony.

We are determined to regain the respect of the world.

They say it’s always darkest before the dawn.

This, then, is our new dawn. Our new and even better Malaysia.
